Foreword

This yearbook is somewhat different from past issues in that it is a school book rather than a class book. The seniors still occupy their own section, but we have included more articles and pictures of underclassmen. This trend is especially evident in the picture pages.

We've tried to keep the book informal and cheerful. We've had the usual troubles about deadlines, finances, etc., but we've really had a swell time compiling this account of the past school year. We hope you get as much enjoyment in reading it.

Here is a brief table of contents for the reader's convenience.

Dedication

The staff of this yearbook did not hesitate in naming a person for this distinction, since we felt there was someone who richly deserved it. Miss Ida Stamm has been a teacher at West Reading for twenty-six years. During this time she has made many friends of students and teachers. Those who have been associated with her will always remember Miss Stamm's warm and friendly manner, her unending patience and cheerful humor. Miss Stamm is leaving West Reading High School this year, and it is with sincere pleasure, mingled with a keen sense of loss at her departure, that we dedicate this yearbook to her.

MISS IDA A. STAMM

Our Community

Some people will possibly wonder about the inclusion of a page of borough pictures in this school annual. We have added such a section for two reasons: the community which our school serves has, as a matter of course, an important place in school affairs; and we are proud of our borough.

These pictures are not the only points of interest or importance in West Reading. However, they are representative, and we feel that they will call to mind some of the places which the students of West Reading High School will always associate with their school life.

Our School

The opposite page is devoted to different locations in our community. This page covers the place of focal interest for us during the last twelve years. We have spent many pleasant hours here, and we have formed many happy memories of our school. An occasional visit to these doors after graduation will serve to renew these fond memories of our experiences at West Reading High School.

MR. J. MAURICE STRATTAN

Supervising Principal

"I am sure that we will all be pleased with the 1948 Vaquero. The staff has worked hard and has met many difficulties in the problems of advertising, distribution, printing, and binding, and particularly, that of getting our yearbook to us on time. From the editor down, they deserve our highest commendations. As this is being written, there is every indication that the 1948 Vaquero will be a worthy addition to its predecessors.

"To the entire staff, congratulations, and to the seniors of 1948, good luck and success in your plans for the future. 'Quit ye like men,' is the famous advice of St. Paul. Work and live so that no minute is ever lost or regretted."

J. MAURICE STRATTAN

MR. EDWIN B. YEICH

High School Principal

"As another year rolls around and another issue of the Vaquero comes from the press, I am again happy at the privilege of writing a few words of greeting to its readers. From the activities of the staff this year, I know the Vaquero will be a huge success and that the staff is to be congratulated upon it. As for the book itself, it will, I am sure, be a source of pleasure for years to come to those who own and cherish one, for it will always be a link with the past."

EDWIN B. YEICH

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The power behind the scenes in the West Reading school system is the Board of Education. Composed of five prominent borough citizens, the Board has been capable and progressive in their handling of school affairs. Not content to rest on their laurels, these men are constantly planning and realizing the benefits of modern and more advanced school administration.

The following men compose the present Board: President, Mr. Richard H. Hohl; Vice-President, Mr. John A. Miller; Secretary, Mr. Ralph B. Miller; Treasurer, Mr. Bernard E. Leightheiser; and Mr. Samuel H. Wertz, the fifth member of the Board.

Our Faculty

West Reading is indeed fortunate to have such a fine group of people as members of the high school staff. Our faculty has been well-trained and is capably prepared for the important job of teaching. Aside from their regular task of imparting knowledge to their students, most of the teachers also had charge of several extra-curricular activities. These activities, such as football, baseball, dramatics, debating, student council, and many others, took much of the faculty's extra time. We are fortunate to have teachers in our school who are willing to give their time in making school pleasant and worthwhile.

When returning to our alma mater next fall, we all shall be aware of the absence of Miss Stamm, our mathematics instructor. Any student of Miss Stamm's will always remember the "first mistake she ever made."

Next year we look forward to the return of most of our faculty and anticipate an auspicious and profitable term.

ENGLISH

In addition to his position as High School Principal, a post which he has held for twenty-six years, Mr. Edwin B. Yeich spends much of his time teaching junior as well as senior English and in assisting various groups with their school activities. Mr. Yeich received his B. A. at Franklin and Marshall College and his M. A. at the University of Pennsylvania. . . . . During the Christmas holidays, our speech teacher was busily changing her name from Miss Dean to Mrs. Brunner. Besides her work as speech correctionist, Mrs. Brunner also teaches seventh grade English and coaches dramatic productions. Mrs. Brunner was graduated from Bloomsburg State Teachers College and has a B. S. degree. . . . . Our only representative of the faculty with a southern background is Mrs. Helen Bolton, a graduate of Mary and Washington College with a B. S. degree. Besides advising the school's bi-weekly publication, the Lariat, Mrs. Bolton's roster also includes ninth, tenth, and eleventh grade English. . . . . New to our school this year is Mrs. Mabel Gerhart, who had previously taught for eight years at Mohnton. She received her B. A. and M. A. at Cornell University and is now teaching eighth grade English in addition to classes in German. Mrs. Gerhart also advises the German and Dramatics Clubs.

SOCIAL STUDIES

"If you want to put this program on, it's got to be perfect"—Mrs. Gresh, who teaches junior high social studies, can be heard saying while rehearsing for the annual eighth grade tea. Shippensburg State Teachers College is her alma mater. Among her other projects are the eighth grade excursions through Berks County to become acquainted with historical and geographical points of interest. . . . . The lectures and experiences of Mr. Forrest Schaeffer have certainly enlivened classes this year. This is his first year as teacher of world history, American history, and problems of democracy. He attended Kutztown State Teachers College and Columbia University, where he received his B. S. and M. A. respectively. . . . . Mr. John Shalter received his B. S. at Millersville State Teachers College and his M. S. at University of Pennsylvania. His duties do not stop at teaching geography and civics to junior high students, as he also coaches the football, swimming, and baseball teams.

MATHEMATICS

The old "math class" will not seem the same without Miss Ida Stamm, who will no longer be associated with Mr. Evan H. Manwiller in their joint task of educating their many students in the knowledge of figures. After twenty-six years of teaching first and second year algebra, plane and solid geometry, and trigonometry, Miss Stamm deserves a well-earned respite. Because of her long association with our school, she enjoys the continuing friendship of many of our alumni. Miss Stamm attended Susquehanna University and University of Pennsylvania. . . . . Mr. Manwiller works with the students through seventh and eighth grade arithmetic and ninth and tenth grade commercial mathematics. He attended Penn State and received his degree of Bachelor of Science at Albright College. It will not be easy to secure a team of as conscientious workers as we have had in this important field of teaching.

LANGUAGE

West Reading is proud of its language department, for students have a choice of French, Spanish, German, and Latin. After a few days exposure to the French language, students become "manner conscious," with the acquisition of "s'il vous plait" and "merci beaucoup," to their vocabulary. Miss Mabel H. Fritz, French and Latin instructor, received her Bachelor of Arts degree at Bucknell University and her Master of Arts degree at Columbia University. She furthered her studies at Middlebury College and Penn State. . . . . Mrs. Mabel L. Gerhart, our German instructor, is a newcomer to our faculty. Upon graduation from Cornell University, where she received her Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees, Mrs. Gerhart went abroad to continue her studies at the University of Munich, Germany. "Wie geht's?" — "Machen Sie das Fenster auf" — these phrases toll a familiar bell for all German students. . . . . Mr. Harold Bare, a senior at Albright College, instructs the second year Spanish class. Mr. Bare, who hails from Laureldale, now lives in West Reading.

SCIENCE

Another one of our new staff members this year is Mr. Martin F. Hubley. This is Mr. Hubley's first teaching position, but this fact did not prevent him from catapulting into the midst of our busy schedule. He had an opportunity to meet many of his future students early in the fall when he plunged into the duties of football coach. He attended Mount St. Mary's, University of Pennsylvania, and Shippensburg State Teachers College, where he received his B. S. in Education. . . . . After being discharged from the Army in 1946, Mr. Fiske continued his education at Penn State and then came to West Reading to teach general science and shop courses. He has become a great favorite with the students because of his ability to successfully combine fun with work. He holds the title of the school's "handiest man" and can always be found ready to lend a helping hand.

COMMERCIAL STAFF

Mr. Samuel J. Naylor, our teacher and banker, is always on the job. His worries over the welfare of the senior class are constant and well-known. The banking club, made up of commercial students, helps him with the school bank accounts. Those trips with the senior class to Washington and Philadelphia proved to be memorable occasions. . . . . The other half of the commercial department is Miss Dorothy Lemmert. She received her B. S. degree at Indiana State Teachers College. Advising the Junior Class events was one of her many duties. Every Wednesday night found her working with the Y-Teen cabinet to present beneficial programs for the members. Miss Lemmert's greatest task and responsibility was the management and publication of the school yearbook. Many nights were spent with the staff in preparing the material. We deeply appreciate her earnest efforts on our behalf.

FINE ARTS

The music department of our school is constantly growing. Mr. Homer Barthold, music supervisor, has spent a great deal of his time and effort in increasing the interest in the school orchestra, band, and dance band. Mr. Barthold attended Lebanon Valley Conservatory of Music where he obtained his B. S. degree. Later he received his M. A. degree from Columbia University. . . . . Mr. Richard Seidel, a West Reading graduate, also obtained his B. S. degree from Lebanon Valley Conservatory and attended the Hamilton School of Music in Philadelphia. As supervisor of vocal music, Mr. Seidel directed the MacDowell Choral Club and the Junior Chorus. Both students and outside groups were able to appreciate the results of his splendid work. . . . . Mr. James M. K. Waldron reigns over the art department. After graduating from West Reading High, he furthered his education at Kutztown State Teachers College and University of California. He is now working for his M. F. A. degree at Temple University. During Mr. Waldron's two and one-half years in the service, he sketched numerous pictures in European countries.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The many colorful programs, invitations, tallies, and tickets seen at school events all come from our own Industrial Arts Department. The list need not stop there either. Some other accomplishments of this department are castings of animals for bookends, hammered copper dishes, book racks and ash trays. We have two very able instructors for this course. Mr. Fiske, a graduate of Penn State, directs the boys in wood-working, electricity, and metal shop. His keen sense of humor has found favor with all the pupils. Mr. Leininger instructs printing, wood-working, and mechanical drawing. Although a native of Mohnton, Mr. Leininger makes West Reading his second home and has been teaching here twenty-two years. He has attended Albright College, Millersville State Teachers College, Penn State, and the University of Pennsylvania.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

"Now boys," is a phrase heard many times as Coach John Shaner warns his athletic proteges to "keep in line." Over the years hundreds of boys have heard these familiar words, as Coach is a veteran faculty member at our school. This past year was his twenty-fourth as the director of physical education at West Reading. Mr. Shaner was graduated from Culver Normal School in Indiana and has since furthered his education at such schools as Albright, University of Pennsylvania, and Penn State College (receiving his B.S. from Albright and his M.S. from the University of Pennsylvania). . . . Co-worker with Mr. Shaner in the physical education department is Miss Agnes Shephard. Miss Shephard is one of the more recent additions to the faculty. In the short time she has been at West Reading, Miss Shephard has built up a great deal of enthusiasm for girls' sports. She attended high school in Philadelphia, where she was an outstanding hockey player, and obtained her B.S. degree from West Chester State Teachers College.

HOME ECONOMICS

In this department the pupils of West Reading High learn the art of homemaking. Sewing and cooking are the main courses, but special instruction is also given in interior decorating, home nursing, child care, and grooming. The seasons of Easter and Christmas call upon the students of this department to make colored eggs and cookies. The boys' chef club visited Mrs. Schofer weekly and practiced the art of cookery. Mrs. Rosene Schofer, the dean of the Homemaking Department, was graduated from Terre Hill High School, Pennsylvania, and received a B. S. degree from Penn State College. Her post at West Reading was her first position in the field of teaching.

LIBRARY

The attractive, pint-sized brunette, rapping to keep order in the library, is Miss Mary Ann McDonald, an alumna of this school. Upon graduation Miss McDonald continued her studies at Kutztown State Teachers College. Last year she practiced her student teaching at West Reading; and now, as a regularly employed teacher, she has complete charge of our 5,300 volume library. Under the guidance of Miss McDonald, the newly organized Display Club plans the attractive weekly exhibits for the case in the center hall. Miss McDonald also shares the sponsorship of the Y-Teens.

HEALTH SERVICE

The school health service in West Reading, the first to be developed in Berks County outside of Reading, is as concentrated and complete as any health service department in a public school in Pennsylvania. It surpasses requirements set up by the Pennsylvania State Department of Health and Instruction. . . . Mrs. Sara Stanton, R.N., a graduate of Reading Hospital, holds the full-time position of school nurse, while Mrs. A. O. Henne, a graduate of Thomas Evans Institute of the University of Pennsylvania, acts as dental hygienist. The school also employs the services of Dr. Harry W. Bagenstose for medical examinations of our athletes. Each pupil received a complete medical examination, with laboratory tests if necessary, in grades 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, and 11. All teachers are given the same examination by the physician every two years. Dr. Roy K. Leinbach is also employed to make a thorough dental examination of all pupils every year.

OFFICE STAFF

With the introduction of modern and more advanced methods of school administration, the work of the office staff has become increasingly greater and more complicated. All day long the staff is busy answering phones, cutting stencils, taking letters, and attending to many other tasks. Mrs. Marjorie Mishler, Mr. Strattan's secretary, left us in February to further her education. Mrs. Grace Hamilton has replaced Mrs. Mishler. Mrs. Hamilton was overwhelmed by the write-up of her arrival in the Lariat and remarked about the friendliness of the West Reading students. She attended Lebanon High School and Lebanon Business College. Mrs. Betty Fassnacht is the other half of the duo. She can often be seen in the office busily typing or hurrying through the halls on some errand. She attended Reading High School and McCann's Business School.

CUSTODIANS

Our Alma Mater is kept spic and span by a hard working trio composed of Charles Merkel, Jesse Spence, and Howard Bennethum. These men have duties which are varied and exacting. There are many evident jobs such as floor maintenance, heating, and ventilation. In addition, there are many duties which are sometimes even more difficult, though not realized by the average person at school. Our janitors must be constantly on their toes to see that those tasks necessary to the running of the school plant are performed in the most efficient and scientific manner. These three men have been especially generous in their help at various school functions and in rendering many extra courtesies to students and teachers.

Student Council

Sitting: B. Spangenberg, Miss Fritz, L. Haehnel, D. Schlegel, J. Hower, R. Rickenbach, Mrs. Gresh, P. Hoeffler.

Standing: J. Witwer, F. Horn, G. Metz, E. Brown, D. D'Ercole, Mr. Schaeffer, C. Horn, D. Diener, D. Potteiger, P. Bailey.

Silence! It is Tuesday, activities period. The room is still, filled with quiet expectancy. Hush! Janet Hower is rapping for attention. Student Council meeting is about to begin. These students tread their way carefully, for they are the elected representatives of a self-governed school. Listening to the president are David Schlegel, vice president; Robert Rickenbach, treasurer; and Lucy Haehnel, secretary; these are the duly chosen officers by election of the independent student body.

Articles on the agenda were discussed and acted upon swiftly, for there was much to do. The Student Activities Conference, which was held on October 10, 1947, proved that the student council was doing their work well. This conference brought together students from many Berks schools to discuss their scholastic and activity programs. This was the first attempt of this type, and it succeeded admirably.

The student council was advised by high school deans, Miss Fritz, Mrs. Gresh, and Mr. Schaeffer, who are to be commended for their splendid work in assisting the council on technical matters.

The National Honor Society gives recognition to those students who, in the opinion of their teachers and classmates, are building their lives around these four attributes: character, scholarship, leadership, and service. The West Reading chapter is only two years old, but it has already made its impression on both our school and on other Berks schools. In co-operation with the Student Council, this organization operated a student activities conference on October 10 to which fifteen neighboring schools sent representatives. Each of the one hundred seventy-nine delegates attended one of the eight activities discussions held during the conference. Their favorable reactions assured us that they enjoyed and profited by their visit to West Reading High.

Monitor System

"Watch that white line," was a familiar expression heard in the halls of West Reading High School. Our monitors were constantly on duty to supervise the actions of the students around the school. Monitors were posted throughout the halls during the change of classes in order to keep hall traffic moving.

The Board of Monitors, with David Pottleiger as chairman and Mrs. Gresh as adviser, worked hard all year to maintain order in the halls. They tried to maintain orderly conduct and to provide new and better means for passing through the corridors.

Senior high school student monitors were suggested by the 1946-47 Board of Monitors and were approved by Student Council. This method of self-discipline was the most satisfactory form of student co-operation and gave a decided gain in the ever-growing advancement of our school.

Third row: A. Gray, G. Metz, R. Keller, R. Feeg, G. Busch.

Behind the scenes of every auditorium production in our school, we find a quietly active group — the Assembly Committee. Seldom hitting the headlines with some spectacular accomplishment, its members are, nevertheless, performing their duties with ability and imagination. Working in close co-operation with the Stagecraft Club, this organization assumes the responsibility of lining up assembly sponsors for the year and giving each one practical suggestions for a better program. The committee assigns each home room a definite area on its seating chart at the beginning of the year and also arranges the assembly sequence to provide maximum interest and variety.

Until the Assembly Committee was organized three years ago, West Reading students were not accustomed to having a program every week, and assemblies were called only on special occasions. Admirable progress has been made, and there can be no doubt that our assemblies have become well-planned, full of variety, and consistently better by the efforts of this committee.

Vaquero

Sitting: M. Ammon, B. Haehnel, D. Pottleiger, A. Grauert, S. Richter, P. Haas, C. Reeser, C. Ernst, J. Willwerth, B. Merget, K. Spangenberg.

Standing: J. LeVan, J. Brunner, D. Chambers, R. Angstadt, B. Hartzell, J. Walker, Miss Lemmert, D. Witman, B. Gring, D. Gajewski, N. Herb, M. Drehs, M. McGrath, A. Cucinotta, N. Koenig, C. Bailey, R. Greth, B. Leek, M. Mentzer, R. Rowley.

Absent from picture: E. Cardinal, G. Greene.

The purpose of a yearbook is to comprehensively and to accurately record the events of the school year. This is a very noble and worthy project. But regardless of how high the purpose may be, it also requires a lot of elbow grease. The Vaquero Staff has expended a great deal of time and energy to produce this book and sincerely hopes they have adequately accomplished the task given them.

In charge of the industrious group was Editor David Pottleiger, and the capable and helpful adviser was Miss Dorothy Lemmert. Everyone had a definite job to do, and it was up to the editors of the various departments to see that the members of the groups which they headed did their work efficiently and thoroughly.

The staff does not intend to stop working after the book has been completed, but is going to work on constructive planning to attempt to better the quality of next year's book.

Lariat

Sitting: M. McGrath, M. Hartzell, M. Batdorf, C. Bailey, P. Hoeffler, J. Robbins, J. Hower, D. Schlegel, J. Rentschler, B. Merget.

Standing: R. Stoudt, J. Thompson, T. Manzolillo, M. Drehs, G. D'Ercole, J. Pleam, D. D'Ercole, R. Rickenbach, C. Ernst, G. Greene, Mrs. Bolton, M. Ammon, D. Chambers, D. Witman, J. Killian, J. Brunner, D. Smith, P. Haas, N. Kroenig, R. Angstadt, K. Spangenberg, B. Wolf, B. Hartzell, M. Kern, R. Greth.

Every other Friday afternoon as soon as classes are over, the students make a mad dash to their home rooms to get their copy of the Lariat, hot off the press. Growing from the mimeographed publication of a few years ago, the Lariat has become a commercially printed newspaper. It now occupies a prominent position among school activities.

The Lariat meets the demands for every type of news. Its columns range from the gossip "Have You" to the thought provoking editorials of James Robbins, Editor-in-Chief. Mrs. Bolton has freely given of her newspaper knowledge, and the whole staff has worked hard to make the paper a success.

The Lariat's activities have not stopped with putting out the bi-weekly paper. The editors were sent to a press convention, where they learned many helpful pointers; and Mrs. Bolton and the editors have been constantly coaching the staff in correct newspaper technique. The Lariat picnic, resumed after a lapse of a few years, provided some well-earned relaxation for the staff.

Y-Teens

First row: B. Gring, D. Chambers, A. Cucinotta, J. Brunner, S. Richter, A. Grauert, J. Hower, B. Batdorf, M. Batdorf.

Second row: Miss McDonald, B. Hartzell, P. Haas, J. Walker, C. Gerhart, S. Feick, D. Richter, P. Naylor, Miss Lemmert.

Third row: S. Luckenbill, M. McGrath, B. Merget, K. Spangenberg, C. Bailey, N. Giamo, G. Winters, G. Ohlin, E. Cardinal, B. Leek, C. Showers.

Fourth row: J. LeVan, B. Hachnel, F. Weidenheimer, J. Picam, D. D'Ercole, B. Wolf, M. Kern, M. Drehs, N. Herb, M. Rankey, P. Ditzler.

Fifth row: A. Moyer, J. Lavigna, J. Rowley, N. Borkert, E. Schnellenbach, J. Cuifci, P. Blankenbiller, G. D'Ercole, J. Grimm, B. Geiss, N. Homan.

Sixth row: J. Graver, D. Disinger, P. Dillon.

That very active group of tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade girls who thronged into the school every other Wednesday evening was our high school chapter of the Y-Teens. One of the busiest and most popular organizations in the school, the Y-Teens were constantly putting on interesting programs and planning enjoyable social events.

One of the most thoroughly appreciated programs of the entire year was the flower show held in early spring. A representative from Giles, a well-known local florist, demonstrated to the members the art of arranging flowers and making corsages.

Other activities included a gym night, a well-attended doggie roast, and a visit by Mrs. Sands' theatrical group. The annual W. P. A. Dance and yearly banquet were other highspots of the year's events. In a more serious vein, the Y-Teens packed boxes for distribution at Thanksgiving time and made scrapbooks which were given at Christmas time to the children in the Reading Hospital.

Heading this enterprising organization were the following: Janet Brunner, president; Ann Grauert, vice-president; Siegrid Richter, secretary; and Anna Cucinotta, treasurer. The officers were invaluablely assisted by the two advisers, Miss McDonald and Miss Lemmert.

This organization has successfully performed its worthy objective of teaching young minds that constructive ideas and deeds can be successfully and enjoyably accomplished.

Hi-Y

First row: R. Rickenbach, C Ernst, Mr Schaeffer, P. Hoeffler, D. Schlegel

Second row: J. Spannuth, T. Manzollilo, J. Ephlin, E. Borneman, E. Schnellenbach, P Bailey

Third row: T. Harkin, D. Smith, B. Leighthelmer, J. Rentschler, G Bright, R. Stoudt.

Fourth row: W. Naugle, R. Feeg, C. Hlester.

The great voice boomed from the center of the stage, sweeping in all its magnificent tones, crying out its passionate plea for world unity and peace. The speaker paused. Applause began, growing more thunderous with every second as The Reverend Imre Kovacs modestly waited for the expression of praise to abate. "The Challenge of Being an American," his speech, seemed to pervade the very air. The Hi-Y was very proud of itself and the speaker, whom they presented with the aid of the Y-Teens. President Philip Hoeffler gratefully rose to thank the impressive Mr. Kovacs.

This was only a bird's-eye view of the work the Hi-Y club performed in conjunction with their usual meetings and entertainment; the Hi-Y meetings were enlivened at various times by movies and intramural basketball.

Mr. Forrest Schaeffer is to be congratulated for his leadership and interest in the club. Aiding him in this program were the president, Philip Hoeffler; vice president, David Schlegel; secretary, Christopher Ernst; and treasurer, Robert Rickenbach.

Hi-Y Officers

Orchestra

First row: G. Janssen, M. Kullman, R. Reber, G. Ready, J. Robbins, J. Thompson, D. Diener, M. Leek.

Second row: B. Spangenberg, W. Scheck, N. Homan, N. Herb, J. Brunner, R. Angstadt, R. Leigemann, K. Schnellenbach.

Third row: J. Beyerle, R. McGrath, R. Cremer, D. Geiss, G. Leek, J. Piscitelli, B. Leightheiser, P. Bailey, D. Cherry, J. Mengle, F. Stoyer.

Fourth row: G. Sponagle, J. Rhoda, N. Chapman, J. Raser, D. Graeff, R. Rampolla, R. Lechleitner, B. Weeber, Mr. Barthold.

It is difficult to differentiate between the orchestra and the band in a school the size of West Reading. Most musicians who belong to one of these organizations also belong to the other. Probably the best way to identify these groups is by the uniforms which they wear. The band is attired in colorful maroon and steel uniforms and the orchestra wears tan sport coats, which were made by members of the P. T. A. The uniforms for both groups were obtained during the past year and marked another forward step in the rapid development of these music organizations. Much of this recent advancement has been due to the leadership and effort of Mr. Barthold.

The band was especially conspicuous at football games. The orchestra provided the music for our daily assemblies and special class events. A considerable group of people from these organizations were selected to play in All County Band and All County Orchestra.

This outstanding vocal music organization of W. R. H. S. has grown from a mere group of ten inspired vocalists to an ever-increasing membership of fifty-six eager students. Organized in 1941, the club has since fulfilled many outside engagements as well as the ones in the school and has earned a high reputation as a result of its fine performances.

"The MacDowell," as it is commonly referred to, got its name from the fact that its theme song, "To A Wild Rose," was written by Edward MacDowell.

Mr. Richard D. Seidel, an alumnus of West Reading High School, directed the organization. Officers of the club were: President, Gerald Ready; Vice President, Patricia Haas; Secretary-Treasurer, Janet Brunner.

Junior Chorus

Senior Class Play

The show is on! We've never forgotten the enthusiasm and effort the seniors showed toward their superb production of "January Thaw." The subtle comedy and sparkling lines were the factors that made it a play that will long be remembered by those who saw it.

A writer and his family bought a farm in New England. Matters became complicated when the former owners moved in and reclaimed the property. Mr. Gage, played by Gerald Ready, and Mr. Rockwood, George DeMoss, were constantly having trivial arguments about politics and farming. Mrs. Gage, played by Betty Haehnel, was continually attempting to discourage the old-fashioned ways and ideas of Mrs. Rockwood, Mary Ann Batdorf. The three Gage daughters, played by Marjorie Ammon, Janet Hower, and Dorothy Chambers, were both the joy and despair of their parents.

Rounding out the rest of the cast were Bruce Weeber, James Robbins, Charles Reeser, Richard Keller, David Potteiger, Ann Grauert, and Robert Angstadt.

Each Sunday evening, radio listeners tune in to hear the uproarious antics of "Those Websters." This year a West Reading audience saw "Those Websters" in action when members of the Junior Class presented their hilarious version of the popular radio program.

The plot revolved around Bill's sudden love for his father's secretary, who was only being nice to him when she accepted an invitation to the homecoming football dance. Belinda, his old flame, was crushed by his sudden turn of heart. Bill became so mixed up with his love-life that he flunked a make-up exam in history; consequently, he forfeited his right to play in the homecoming game. The fur flew fast and furious, but there was a happy ending for Bill and Belinda.

The cast included David Schlegel, Katharine Spangenberg, Jean Walker, Gordon Greene, Barbara Batdorf, Joseph Killian, Beth Merget, James Willwerth, Thomas Manzillo, Gloria Winters, James Killian, and Barbara Wolf.

Dramatics Club

Lights . . . music . . . curtain . . . the show is on!!! Cast members take a last anxious glance at their lines, for even the best of them experience those typical "first night" chills. Our Dramatics Club is the place for the budding Bernhardts and the potential Barrymores of acting fame. The smell of grease paint, the glare of the footlights, a full house, all hold a fascination for talented W.R.H.S. students; and it is up to these lovers of the stage to present a program on the prominent holidays of the year. Mrs. Brunner and Mrs. Gerhart are always on hand to help the club over the rough spots and iron out any problems that may arise.

Mary Ann Batdorf calls the club to order and is assisted by Marjorie Ammon, vice-president, and Bruce Weeber, secretary-treasurer. These people are all members of the Thespian Society and serve as officers for that organization.

B. Geiss, Mrs. Gerhart, A. Grauert, J. LeVan, J. Grimm, Mrs. Brunner, R. Keller, D. Smith, R. Feeg, M. Batdorf, D. Pottelger, B. Haehnel, G. Busch, S. Richter, B. Weeber

The main faucet of the dramatic organization was the alert Thespian Troupe, which contributed much to the school in the way of stage offerings. The officers of the Dramatics Club also served as the officers of the Thespian Club, and all Thespians were members of the Dramatics Club. Included in the group's repertoire were the Christmas play and "Easter Shoes." During mid-term the members turned semi-professional with a production of "How to Propose" at a banquet in Whitner's. The proceeds of this show were used to buy new seat covers for stage furniture.

Forensic Club

"Never answer a question with a question!" thundered Mr. Schaeffer, the new dean of the debating club of West Reading High School. Mr. Forrest Schaeffer was considered well-trained to head this promising organization since he was experienced in oratorical skill, as proven by his high school and college debating records. His "pointers" were of invaluable aid to President David Pottleiger, Secretary Janet Hower, and Business Manager Jean Walker.

Since this team was the smallest in the short history of our school debating club (consisting of only six members), each Forensic member, therefore, has an opportunity to participate in the County Debates. In those debates, the entire county was divided into a number of triangular divisions, and we were included in the group with Fleetwood and Ontelaunee High Schools.

The school was rightfully proud of this enterprising group, and we have high hopes that the club will continue its richly deserved success.

Every organization needs its bookkeeper, but the financial requirements of the various athletic, class, and other school functions call for more than that. As a consequence, the Banking Club has grown to be an important adjunct in our school set-up. Nine members of the commercial course do all the depositing, checking, and balance of the bank accounts of different organizations.

B. Wolf, J. Pleam, M. Kern, D. D'Ercole, B. Gring, A. Williams, R. Witman, A. Cucinotta.

In addition to localizing all the financial affairs into one responsible group, it also trains these members in the facts of general banking regulations.

Nicholas Cuifici, as president, has had splendid support from his assistants; and there have been no complaints of shortages. This organization, since its inception, has done a great deal to alleviate the financial problems of the school.

Everyone is aware of the extensive athletic program conducted in the West Reading High School. But games aren't merely played—sports don't simply happen! Games must be arranged and scheduled, tickets made, teams organized, cheerleaders chosen, equipment purchased, insurance bought, and other tasks must be accomplished by the Athletic Association.

During the 1948 season, President Michael McCarthy presided over meetings and reported to the Athletic Council. When he was absent, Vice President Darl Sauber took command. Secretary Janet Brunner recorded the minutes while Treasurer Mr. Manwiler juggled the books. Since the sponsors, Miss Shephard and Mr. Shaner, called meetings every two weeks, the association realized that every sport season presented new difficulties. It is to the credit of this organization that athletics in West Reading have become a highly specialized game of skill, holding the interest of spectators and players alike.

When we see a football or basketball game, many of us are not aware of the preparation needed to further the sports activity program. The Athletic Council prepares itself weeks ahead of the sport season. Some of their many responsibilities are arranging the schedule, choosing the coach, providing for necessary funds, and last of all, choosing the individual player's award.

The Athletic Council met every month with Mr. Yeich presiding. Miss Shephard and Mr. Manwiler found the positions of secretary and treasurer stimulating and important. Michael McCarthy, student representative, worked arduously with the council to present the games we all enjoyed.

Football

"WEST READING REPELS WYOMISSING 25-0!" In spite of the defeats suffered by the football team during the 1947 season, this landslide win made the season a success.

This year Mr. Martin Hubley joined Mr. Shalter and Mr. Shaner on the football coaching staff. The team and coaches worked under terrific pressure, since West Reading had won the football championship with an undefeated team in conference games of the previous year. But their fighting spirit proved a tremendous obstacle to over-confident teams.

The football archives for 1947 revealed that the Cowboys ended in a three-way tie for fourth place. Nevertheless, the Cowboys placed two men on the All-County team—Jack Brown and David "Dumper" Evans. "Dumper" was also selected as the outstanding lineman of the year.

The school went all out to support this fighting team.

Mr. Martin F. Hubley

During the past year a new mentor, Mr. Martin F. Hubley, took charge of football duties at West Reading High School. Assisted by Mr. John Shalter, line coach of the team for the past few years, Mr. Hubley capably performed his coaching duties. Working right along with the boys, the new coach has gained his team's respect and confidence. If you've ever watched Mr. Hubley coach from the bench, you know just how hard he works to win those games. We're expecting great things of West Reading High football teams in the future.

Once again as we reminisce over the basketball season, West Reading High School can be proud of their Cowboy quintet and the splendid work this team has done.

In completing their season of fourteen league games in the Central Division, the Shanermen established a record of nine wins and five losses, drawing a tie for third place with Birdsboro. Incidentally, this is the fourth consecutive year that we have had a 9-5 record in this varsity sport.

Entering the playoffs for the second year in succession, West Reading succeeded in defeating the Birds by a 39-36 score after being defeated twice by them during the season. Following the defeat of Birdsboro, the Cowboys traveled to Lebanon where they encountered the basketteers from Annville. In this battle, W. R. H. S. was defeated 37-40, thus ending their season.

The top scorer for the varsity squad was Nick Cuifci with a total of 160 markers to his tally. Following close to Nick's heels was Bunny Witman with 153 points to his credit.

The Junior Varsity, under the coaching of Mr. Martin F. Hubley, had one of the most successful seasons in recent years. This squad had a final tally of ten games won and four lost. The team stood second in the league, tied with Mt. Penn, and topped by Wilson, the league champion.

Spark plug of the J. V.'s was Dave Schlegel, who racked up 127 points to become the team's leading scorer. Andy Gray, newcomer to the team, copped second place with a total of 110 points.

Once again our Baby Cowboys, the junior high team, played a fine season of basketball. The team placed second in their league, bowing only to the Baby Prexies from Wilson High. Top scorers for the Baby Cowboys were Jack Shaner, Karl Schnellenbach, and Jim Rentschler.

The girls' basketball team wound up their best season in over a decade in 1947-48. Our Cowgirls, coached by Miss Agnes Shephard and captained by Janet Hower, faced a tough twelve-game schedule. Final record—four losses in twelve starts.

Kitty Spangenberg, serving her first year on the team, led the sharpshooters with 78 points. Runnerup laurels went to Barbara Batdorf with 68 counters and Janet Hower with 51. The Cowgirls had a strong defense which held every opponent to less than 30 points per game.

The West Reading mermen have done it again! Not only was the team undefeated in league competition and victorious in the league championship meet, but we also added the state diving title to our already bulging collection of swimming honors.

The Cowboys submerged Reading, Shillington, Wilson, Muhlenberg, and Mt. Penn in again winning the league toga. This marks the fifth straight year our team has "brought home the bacon" in league warfare.

Individual star of the team was Mickey McCarthy, who came through to win top state honors in diving. A third place win in the meet at Penn State by the relay team of McCarthy, Nick Cufici, Dick Grab, and Bill Focht and Cufici's seventh place finish in the 50 yard freestyle enabled the team to place fourth in competition with twenty-three of Pennsylvania's finest swimming teams.

The state meet marked the conclusion of another excellent season in swimming — the only sport at West Reading where failure to win a championship would cause more surprise than actually winning one.

America's favorite game always attracts a large following of both spectators and participants, and this year will prove no exception. The Cowmen will meet some stiff league competition this season but will be fighting hard to better the 1947 season record of two games won and seven lost. An 8-4 victory in the opening day game with Wyomissing, our traditional rivals, augurs well for the team's success in accomplishing this goal.

The baseball team, as do most of our athletic teams, plays in a powerful league; and the boys of the ball and bat will definitely have to be on their toes to win any game. At any rate, Coach Shalter and the boys have been working hard; and win or lose, we know they'll have done their best.

BOY'S TENNIS

B. Leightheiser, R. Angstadt, D. Schlegel, D. Pottelger, J. Robbins, Manager B. Weeber.

When the weather begins to get a little warmer and spring arrives, many a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of tennis. So it's out with the trusty racquets and off to another tennis season. This year's squad will be largely composed of veterans. Returning from the team of a season ago are James Robbins, David Pottelger, Robert Angstadt, and David Schlegel. Newcomers are Nicholas Cuifici and Bernard Leightheiser.

Tennis has been gathering increased interest in Berks County; and the tennis league, formed only last year, has already welcomed two new entries, Hamburg and Fleetwood. West Reading's entry in the league is unique in that it is the only team with a woman coach. Miss Agnes Shephard has taken over the duty of coaching West Reading's team.

In the past season's league warfare, West Reading captured second place. This season they'll be out to wrest the tennis crown from Shillington's undefeated monarchs of last year. If the Cowboys make a good showing in their league matches, they may send representatives to the PIAA District 3 playoffs.

Track has been enjoying a steady rise in interest among the students of West Reading High School. Last season's team was one of the largest in recent years and had one of the best records of the past few seasons, including a fourth place win in the county meet at Albright. This same team captured third place in the District 3 track and field meet at Lancaster and entered two relay teams in the Lebanon Relays, both of which snared third place.

With many veterans returning from last year's squad and a host of newcomers turning out, we may expect another good season in this sport. The West Reading Interscholastic Meet is sure to be of prime interest for all the citizens of the borough. This meet is one of the three big school track meets held among Berks County schools and is sure to arouse a great deal of interest.

The Philadelphia All-Stars Hockey Team would turn green with envy at a practice of the West Reading girls' hockey team. Imagine them cringing jealously as they watched a perfect twenty-five yard line bully executed! The incredulous look of wonder on their faces would be caused by the clever maneuver that enabled the girls to score a goal. This was practice. While the team had a fairly successful season, they also won a moral victory with their teamwork and fair play.

Center Janet Hower, who was also captain of the team, led the list of retiring seniors this year. Among the girls were June Levan, right guard; Janet Brunner, right fullback; Betty Haehnel, left halfback; and Marjorie Ammon, manager.

"We've got the pep!" and "Go! Cowboys! Go!" rang out at many pep rallies and games, always led by the energetic cheerleaders dressed in their snappy maroon and steel uniforms. These girls were on hand at every football and basketball game to spur the spectators on to root for their alma mater and to keep up the morale of the West Reading teams.

Is there a junior in the house? You can't possibly miss them, for this large, sprawling class had a finger in every school pie. Led by their enthusiastic president, and vice-president, Benjamin O'Neill and Alan Williams respectively, the rollicking junior's elusiveness made it difficult for their secretary, Myrna McGrath, to keep pace with their various activities; and Barbara Batdorf realized how trying a treasurer's position was for such an immense class.

One of the highlights of the 1947-48 season for the juniors was their annual prom, "Winter Wonderland," held on December 29. Other prominent affairs were the skating parties and the class play, "Those Websters." Between social events they augmented their treasury by selling programs at football games.

Good luck "Forty-niners!"

That special little observance, known as initiation, is exclusively reserved for the Sophomore Class. This fact alone would put an air of distinction upon this group, but the Tenth Graders have distinguished themselves in many other ways. This large class has provided many active members for West Reading's school organizations.

Leaders of the Sophomore Class were: Roger Feeg, president; Gerald Busch, vice president; Tina Borkert, secretary; Barbara Focht, treasurer. Miss Fritz and Mrs. Bolton, class sponsors, were always ready to lend a helping hand to the group.

This year the class of 1951 terminated their life in Junior High School. Under the guidance of homeroom deans, Miss Stamm and Mr. Hubley, the Ninth Grade actively participated in various school projects. The officers, who were John Shaner, president; Bernard Leightheiser, Jr., vice president; Carolyn Horn, secretary; and Karl Schnellennbach, treasurer; did a satisfactory job in leading their class to the completion of a worthwhile school term. The Junior High basketball team consisted of all Freshmen and boasted an 8-4 record. Ninth Graders also took part in football, track, baseball, swimming, tennis, and hockey. Credit must be given to the girls who gave their time in cheering our teams to victory.

We hope their entrance to Senior High will prove prosperous.

Champs To Chumps

They took a poll the other day
To see what become of our graduates in May.
The results were alarming; I was quite stunned
At finding out what ten years had done.

Remember Margie of the golden top so fair?
She married a man who was quite a bear.
Instead of possessing new clothes and cars,
She now starves and preserves plums in jars.

And how about Mandy of the voice so grand?
Who lives for the drama and the rest canned.
She got laryngitis singing of Moses,
And now is a surgeon of plastic noses.

Jan Brunner, though small, was quite happy,
At playing the organ for her mammy and pappy.
She now plays every Dick, Harry, and Joe;
Playing Queenie in the Burlesque Show.

And fate played a joke on our friend Dots,
Who wanted to teach to little tots;
She decided to learn more of fairy life.
And now plays Portia on "John's Other Wife."

You'll be surprised to find out that Ann
Who simply adored Lauren BaCall's tan,
Now has her fair skin pale and white
From singing for the Salvation Army at night.

And who could forget Teddy, the scientific brain?
Who planned one day to construct a new train.
He later discovered he could sing
And now is the new Hollywood Swoon King.

All those who heard Pat Haas sing
Said she'd do even better with Bing.
Alas! Alack! Evidently he didn't sign her,
Because she's now cooking in a diner.

Of the whole class Betty was the best
At passing every dramatic test;
As a telephone operator she's in the dough
When you pick up the phone, she says "hello."

Our friend Janet Hower was determined to be
A gym instructor for you and me
But then she met her one and only;
With eight children she's never lonely.

The one who wanted to be a nurse in our class
Was Siegrid Richter, a sweet little lass
Somewhere of nursing she must have got distant,
For now she is a mortician's assistant.

Remember "Red" Ready, a humorous boy?
His rich baritone voice gave to all joy.
But later Red married a bossy woman in mink,
Who insisted he wash dishes in the sink.

A most scholarly person was David P.
A lawyer was what he decided to be;
The gods above heard this with a jigger,
Because now Potty is a city ditch digger.

A quite mellow musician was handsome Bruce;
But of sweet horn-playing he called a truce.
If you wish to see him, light a match to a leaf,
Because now Bruce is the Fire Chief.

Our class president was a fellow named Jim.
The law profession was what called him.
He since has discovered wine, women, and song:
As a playboy he doesn't stay home very long.

And who could forget Mickey McCarthy so small?
In sports he was always on the ball.
But one day he dived into a tank;
Result: He's now the president of a bank.

The "Bugs Bunny" character of our group
Was Richard Witman, who hated soup.
At first he wanted to be a tailor and mend,
But now he's a delegate to the U. N.

Nick Cuiaci had flashing brown eyes,
On seeing him, the girls all let out sighs.
Clerical work was what he wanted to do
But now he tends lions in the Reading Zoo.

All-round sportsman was light-haired Don.
Who always kept smiling if we lost or won.
The whole class knew he wanted to teach,
But stage work put this out of his reach

Our beautiful redhead was Barbara Gring;
She told us all she'd like to sing
Too bad this dream never came true;
As a "pro" baseball player she gets her due.

"That Bisazza boy," we called our Bill.
Where food was concerned he had no will.
To be an artist was his main hope,
But in the navy he mops without soap.

You may ask about cute Anne C.,
Who reasoned a typist earned a good fee.
It's really not a long story to tell,
Because at the end in love she fell.

All through her school days Evie dreamed
Of getting married and taller, it seemed.
But later she found too much she weighed,
And now Miss Cardinal is an old maid.

An independent worker was Barbara Leek,
Who said her freedom she'd always seek
Her would-be-husband heard this with a smile;
On visiting days, he brings her a file.

A long, lanky person was Richard Keller,
He wanted to work as a bank teller.
Of all the boys he knew he was lighter,
And now poor Dick is a prize fighter.

"I'll be a carpenter," said Jack Brown,
"And be the handiest man in town"
My dear friends, you ought to see him now;
As a taxidermist he stuffs all fowl.

Remember Darl Sauber, a kidding clown?
He thought he'd like to be a man about town.
But Uncle Sam took care of that:
As an army general he's getting fat.

A sweet, demure, cute, little girl
Was Dorothy Gajewski, never in a whirl.
But now she hardly knows if she's sane,
Taking people for rides in an aeroplane.

And tall Bill Kerper was our movie star;
In appearance and height he reached quite far.
But now he's settled to a more quiet life;
As an important executive he needs no wife.

The intellectual Robert, who was our classmate,
Made medicine his hoped-for-fate;
He's happy now as a dirty-faced miner,
And thinks no other job could be finer.

Neil Kroenig thought nothing of scaring us all
By taking pictures from a high wall.
And now he continues to act like a fiend,
Replacing Boris Karloff on the screen.

Remember George Metz, a rather tall one,
Who played baseball like it was fun?
He thought most seriously of flying solo;
But now is so rich he plays polo.

"Dumper" Evans impressed all with his size,
And by being sporty and also wise
He'd be a coach, he decided early in life,
But now his goal is to find a rich wife.

Earl Mengel was a big husky guy,
Who said he'd be a marine or die.
From what he said he should be dead;
He cleans dogs to keep his family fed.

A nice, friendly fellow was Jesse B.,
Who never cared what his future might be
I'll tell you what happened in one lump sum;
He filled his ambition to be a bum

Our friend Charles Reeser was always called "Mike."
He wanted to work on a new state pike.
Something happened to put him in a police cell;
As a prison barber he now does well.

This is the end; the final say,
Don't call me June, I'm Napoleon today.
So long, I've got to go away folks;
Here come those people in the white coats.

The Vaquero wishes to thank all its advertisers for their aid in the publication of this yearbook. A high school annual such as ours is possible only through the financial assistance of its advertisers. Many readers stop when they get to this particular section of a yearbook. We hope our readers will not only continue to read through this ad section but will patronize our advertisers as well. This is by far the most satisfactory method of conveying our sincere appreciation.

When we build, let us think that we build forever. Let it not be for present delight nor for present use alone. Let it be such work as our descendants will thank us for; and let us think, as we lay stone on stone, that a time is to come when those stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say, as they look upon the labor and wrought substance of them, "See! This our fathers did for us."

Last Will and Testament

Of The Class Of 1948

As an appropriate conclusion to this yearbook, we, the Class of "48," do hereby write our last school testament in which we bequeath to our beloved underclassmen those talents which we have so brilliantly displayed in the past years while we were members of this great institution of learning.

To Philip Hoeffler, Marjorie Ammon's driving ability.
To Nancy Giamo, Robert Angstadt's nicknames.
To Pearl Ditzler, Mary Ann Batdorf's gift of gab.
To Dolores D'Ercole, Jesse Bewley's love for horses.
To Jean Walker, Bill Bisazza's yellow gym shorts.
To Buzz Hartzell, John Brown's crew cut.
To Bobsy Hartzell, Janet Brunner's secret loves.
To Donald Ratajczak, Evelyn Cardinal's small stature.
To James Mengel, Dorothy Chambers' 88 pin curls.
To Bill Focht, Anna Cucinotta's secretarial ability.
To Dorace Witman, Nick Cuifci's eyebrows.
To John Green, George Demoss's motor scooter.
To Kitty Spangenberg, "Dumper" Evans' ice truck.
To Myrna McGrath, Dot Gajewski's fickleness.
To Christopher Ernst, Ann Grauert's slenderness.
To Robert Lechleitner, Barbara Gring's flaming tresses.
To Eric Borneman, Pat Haas' golden soprano voice.
To Jim Ephlin, Betty Haehnel's lovable character.
To Jacquelyn Pleam, Janet Hower leaves David Schlegel.
To Gordon Greene, Dick Keller's small feet.
To Barbara Batdorf, Bill Kerper's movie star pictures.
To John Maley, Neil Kroenig's quiet manner.
To Spoona Heckler, Barbara Leek's job at Ruth's.
To Bip Weinman, June LeVan's vocabulary.
To Connie Hiester, Mickey McCarthy's diving championship.
To Dale Graeff, Earl Mengel's football ability.
To Catherine Gerhart, George Metz's baseball uniform.
To Ginny Janassen, David Potteiger's pompadour.
To Benny O'Neill, Gerald Ready's muscle building course.
To Joe Killian, Mike Reeser's haunting cackle.
To Nancy Herb, Siegrid Richter's cigarette holder.
To John Thompson, Jimmy Robbin's Old Wyomissing Road girlfriends.
To Mary Drehs, Darl Sauber's keen interest in homework.
To Claire Bailey, Bruce Weeber's clarinet.
To Margaret Kern, Bunny Witman's pool cue.
To Gladys Ohrin, Donald Wolf's sports ability.

This manuscript was drawn up and witnessed on May 27, 1948, by the following witnesses:

JANET BRUNNER
DAVID POTTEIGER
ANNA CUCINOTTA

Finis

With the turning of this last page, we have concluded the story of our school year. To many it is just another chapter in their school lives. For a few the story has been completed. It is hoped that those seniors who are leaving West Reading this year will not lose interest in their school. Instead, as they assume their duties as citizens of the world, may they constantly strive to make certain that a good education with its interests and opportunities is available to all. If this book serves, as the years go by, to remind them of their own school lives and make them a little more concerned with the school life of coming generations, its writers are well satisfied.
